UNIVERSITY OF LILLE

As a leading European university recognized for the excellence of its research and teaching, the University of Lille has made student success one of its major priorities, and places career development at the heart of its commitment. Backed by cutting-edge research, the University's course offering is designed to keep pace with developments in the socio-economic and socio-professional worlds, in order to contribute to the major transitions in our society and prepare each and every learner, throughout their lives, for the skills and professions of tomorrow.

The University of Lille comprises 11 faculties and 4 partner schools - École Nationale Supérieure des Arts et Industries Textiles (ENSAIT), École Nationale Supérieure d'Architecture de Lille (ENSAPL), École Supérieure de Journalisme de Lille (ESJ Lille), Sciences Po Lille (IEP) - and is a key stakeholder in regional ecosystems, thanks to the many partnerships (related to sports, culture, society at large, business, etc.) we have forged for the benefit of our students and staff. This strong dynamic is also supported by the contributions of 6,500 outside professionals who are involved in our teaching activities, and the development of chairs and cooperative ventures that are aligned with all transition in all its forms.

Inspiring tomorrow!

THE FACULTY

The Faculty of Humanities trains close to 7000 students in diverse fields of study such as archeology, arts, history and history of art, modern literature, classics, philosophy and language science.

The Faculty is made up of of seven formation departments, five research labs and several libraries.

Within the Faculty, the Philosophy Department offers to its students complete philosophical training courses, such as 3 Master's degree :

- Arts, Ethic Policy and Society
- Contemporary Philosophy
- Philosophy, Knowledge, Rationalities

The department also trains for the aggregation of philosophy and takes part in courses of the master

« Métiers de l'enseignement, de l'Éducation et de la Formation » (Teaching, Education and Formation Professions) in collaboration with the INSPÉ (National Higher Institute of Teaching and Éducation).

The Department of Philosophy is composed of a teaching team of 16 tenured professors/researchers along with several part time or contracted teachers, as well as an administrative and technical team of two.

Training courses in the Department are supported by the UMR STL (Knowledge, Texts, Language research lab), in which most of the professors/researchers in philosophy develop their research activities.
