GENERAL PHILOSOPHY

The Master Economics of Globalisation and European Integration (EGEI) is a two-year (120 ECTS) program fully taught in English and in a truly global learning environment.

A global career in economics and business.

The Master EGEI programme meets an increasing demand for graduates who have the skills to competently analyse issues of globalisation and economic integration, make relevant policy or strategic recommendations in the public and private sectors.

Excellence in training and education.

An innovative approach which brings together advanced academic competences with more practical knowledge and skills.

Lectures and seminars with EU officials, visits to EU institutions and other Brussels-based bodies.

Interactive modes of instruction : Oxford-style debate, simulations, role playing games, discussion groups and “pitch” presentations.

An Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degree.

Students must spend at least two terms in two EU countries different from their country of residence.

Upon successful completion of the programme, students earn the Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degree in Economics of Globalisation and European Integration.

The diplomas are awarded jointly by a consortium of seven universities and a leading global think tank. Associate partners from academia, international organisations and private sector contribute to the programme with specific skills and highly valuable opportunities for internships.

STRUCTURE OF THE PROGRAMME

The master's programme has a workload of 120 ECTS credits, with a taught part consisting of 90 credits, an internship of 10 credits and a dissertation of 20 credits.

The study programme is full-time and runs over 24 months. It is taught by staff of the eight partner institutions and by high-profile visiting scholars.

During the 2-years, students move to at least three different universities in three different countries.

UNIVERSITY OF LILLE

As a leading European university recognized for the excellence of its research and teaching, the University of Lille has made student success one of its major priorities, and places career development at the heart of its commitment. Backed by cutting-edge research, the University's course offering is designed to keep pace with developments in the socio-economic and socio-professional worlds, in order to contribute to the major transitions in our society and prepare each and every learner, throughout their lives, for the skills and professions of tomorrow.

The University of Lille comprises 11 faculties and 4 partner schools - École Nationale Supérieure des Arts et Industries Textiles (ENSAIT), École Nationale Supérieure d'Architecture de Lille (ENSAPL), École Supérieure de Journalisme de Lille (ESJ Lille), Sciences Po Lille (IEP) - and is a key stakeholder in regional ecosystems, thanks to the many partnerships (related to sports, culture, society at large, business, etc.) we have forged for the benefit of our students and staff. This strong dynamic is also supported by the contributions of 6,500 outside professionals who are involved in our teaching activities, and the development of chairs and cooperative ventures that are aligned with all transition in all its forms.

Inspiring tomorrow!

FACULTY OF ECONOMICS, SOCIAL SCIENCES, GEOGRAPHY AND PLANNING

The Faculty of Economic, Social Sciences, Geography and Planning - FaSEST - is a multidisciplinary faculty offering both theoretical and practical courses, with more than 60 bachelor's and master's degrees in economics and management, cultural studies, geography and sociology. Anchored in the local and international landscape, it facilitates the professional integration of its graduates, in particular through the deployment of work-study programmes. Nearly 300 teacher-researchers and more than 600 professionals contribute their expertise to its courses, which is a considerable asset for the employability of its graduates. With a strong international orientation, the faculty enables more than 300 students to study each year in one of its 200 partner universities around the world.
